WHAT/WHO: First Saturday Art Stroll from one end of Canal Street to the other, including over 75 artists represented at The Hub on Canal. HubArt Connection exhibition during Gallery Walk from 4-7pm at The Hub on Canal. Artist talk at 6pm in the Gallery. "A Violation of Trust" is an exhibit of large scale paintings by Jean Banas which began as her personal journey toward healing from the outrage she felt against those who physically and sexually abuse individuals in their care. Her symbolic colors and bold gestures explore the intensity and range of emotions she felt towards abusers, as well as the different but equally strong emotions she felt for the victims.

Images attached.

WHEN: Saturday, January 7. Art Stroll runs from 10:00am-4:00pm. Gallery Walk and the Opening Reception for the exhibition at The Hub on Canal are from 4:00-7:00pm. Artist talk at 6:00pm. Show runs through January 30.

by HBO, and programs by The History Channel. A veteran Native American flute virtuoso, Two-Hawks has toured throughout the world, performing for audiences as large as 12,000. Native American Flute Music Recording Artist John Two-Hawks has spent his life looking intensely into the deep ways of Spirit, wisdom, healing and connection. With his music and his words, he has reached into a hurting world, sharing the healing power of love, compassion and humility. The enchanting music of John Two-Hawks is considered by many to be a quantum leap above the fray. It soars with breath taking symphonic sounds in one moment, and then soothes the spirit with the powerful organic voice of a lone Native flute in the next. A master virtuoso of the Native American Flute, John is also an extraordinary vocalist, musician and composer. John, whose Lakota name is Siyotanka (Big/Great Flute), belongs to the Oglala Lakota community. Always, Two-Hawks has held fast to his Oglala Lakota Sioux lineage and culture, and it is from this place that the soul of the music he creates and breathes to life is born.

WHAT: Jazz & Blues IV. Back by popular demand! A fantastic line-up featuring The Cook Trio playing Gypsy Jazz and local favorite, Ray Guiser's Jazz Quartet.

Jazz Quartet:

A native of Pittsburgh Pennsylvania, Ray Guiser began playing saxophone at age eight. After attending Berklee College of Music and West Virginia University, Ray moved to Washington D.C and eventually to the New Smyrna/Daytona Beach area. Touring with Grammy Award winning, trumpeter/vocalist, Phil Driscoll and Les Brown and his Band of Renown are just a couple of the highlights of Ray's more than 50-year career. He was also featured on the television program, Jazz Here and Now that ran in conjunction with the PBS broadcast of Ken Burns, History of Jazz.

Bill Doyle moved to Northeast Florida from New Jersey in 2004. He began playing drums at the age of 12, studying with popular drummers in the New York/New Jersey area. He worked with bands in North Jersey, the Jersey Shore and New York City. By the time Bill was 19, he was teaching drums and playing with some of the area's best jazz musicians, including band leader /composer Micky Erbe and Wayne "Doc" Kirby. He continued his music career in New Jersey, being a regular in some of the finest clubs and country clubs before moving to Florida where he regularly performs.

Rick Richolson is a freelance bassist who has been actively involved in the Central Florida music scene since 1991. He performs many genres on acoustic and electric bass, specializing in the Great American Songbook, mainstream jazz, Broadway-style shows, classical, pops, big band, Western swing, rock/pop, and rhythm and blues — whatever the occasion calls for. Throughout his career, Rick has worked in the house bands of many Central Florida restaurants and clubs, and performs a variety of festivals and concerts. He has also performed with several nationally- and internationally-known headliners and acts, including the Mantovani Orchestra, Charo, Buddy Greco, Tommy Dorsey Orchestra, Harry James Orchestra, Al Martino, Susan Anton, Valentino DiLorenzo, Greg Bonham, Bill Watrous, and Barbara McNair.

Abe Alam is a professional jazz guitarist, music director and educator located in Central Florida. He is currently a professor at Daytona State College (DSC) where he teaches guitar, jazz ensemble/combo, music history and serves as conductor for Daytona State's spring musical. Abe has regularly performed with the Jacksonville Symphony Orchestra and Space Coast Orchestra. He has worked with the Orlando Shakespeare Theater, Titusville Playhouse as well as other theaters and orchestras. He has performed at the Savannah Jazz Festival, the Jacksonville Jazz Festival, the Monterey "Next Generation" Jazz Festival, the Deland Jazz Festival, the New Smyrna Beach Jazz Festival, the UCF-Orlando Jazz Festival as well as the Jazz Education Network's annual conference. Abe has also toured nationally with singer-songwriter Emily Kopp where he shared the stage with artists such as Boyce Avenue and Michelle Branch.

The Cook Trio: Known for their impeccable and authentic gypsy-jazz playing, The Cook Trio has delighted audiences through-out the U.S. This wonderfully talented group from Orlando romps through traditional Parisian Waltzes, Jazz Standards and Modern Pieces with style and virtuosity. The sound of these acoustic guitars and bass, invites listeners on a journey to the cafes of Paris and the Gypsy camps where guitar is the language of life.

WHEN: Saturday, January 28 from 6:00 - 9:00pm. $5 for members. $10 for non-members.
